

Self-assessment – spoken production (monologisches Sprechen)

	good	So-so	Needs work
Structure
I know expressions to begin a talk
I know expressions to structure a talk
I know expressions to draw conclusions
I know expressions to end a talk
Presenting information
I know expressions to present results
I can use keywords to give a fluent speech
I know techniques to get my audience's interest (e.g. rhetorical questions)
I can summarize a text, a film sequence
Emmmmm

Self-assessment – spoken interaction (dialogisches Sprechen)

	good	So-so	Needs work
Taking part in a discussion
I can initiate a discussion
I know expressions to join a discussion that an English speaker would regard as polite
I know expressions to agree
I know expressions to disagree that an English speaker would regard as polite
Expressing opinion
I know a range of adjectives to express my reactions or my likes and dislikes
I know expressions to express my opinion politely.
Emmm...
I know techniques and expressions to stall for time (well, so you're saying)
I know how to ask someone politely to repeat his question or argument

Self-assessment – just English...

Pronunciation
I think my pronunciation of typically English sounds (th, v, w, r) is correct
I can link words correctly
I can check the pronunciation of unknown words in the dictionary because I'm familiar with phonetic transcription (Lautschrift)
Time and Tenses
I know how and when to express that something happened in the past
I know how and when to express that something happened in the past but there is still a connection to the present.
I know how to express that something will happen in the future and I know how to differ between expressing my own plans and things that I can't control
I know how to express what someone else said and I know how to express whether the reported event happened before the report, at the same time or whether something in the future is talked about.
If, if, if
I know how to express that something is likely to happen
I know how to say that something is not really likely to happen
I know how to say that something could have happened if only...			