Zitat	mögliche S-Aussagen
Michael Imperioli	Walt: this is definitely not true for him; quite the opposite Thao: may be true; however, his family does not seem to take him seriously, so the opposite may also be true
John C. Maxwell	Walt: definitely not true for Walt because they seem to only show interest in him if they want sth.; he doesn't feel close to them, actually prefers to be without them Thao: may be true; however, his family does not really seem to take him seriously, so the opposite may also be true
Richard Le Gallienne	Walt: being suspicious of his neighbours and thus trying to avoid any kind of contact may be wisdom to Walt Thao: does not seem to actively avoid contact with his neighbour
Iyanla Vanzant	Walt: although his family is certainly not a safe haven to him, it doesn't seem to give him heartache, either (or does it?) Thao: although his family doesn't take him too seriously, they seem to provide for him; especially Sue seems to be concerned about him; there is no sign of "deepest heartache" in this family
Lucius Annaeus Seneca	Walt: doesn't want to be understood, just wants to be left alone; does not seem to make any kind of effort to understand the people around him Thao: doesn't seem to feel understood by anyone and seems to accept this fact; he seems too shy and passive to make people understand him
Richard Bach	Walt: it is true that the people he used to live with under the same roof do not feel like family to him; but there are no other bonds of respect and joy Thao: may feel closer to his blood relations but doesn't seem to have any other "family"; his joining the gang certainly has nothing to do with respect and joy
Robert Frost	Walt: although there is no fence in the literal sense, he definitely wants them to stay behind the imaginary fence/ stands his ground Thao: despite Walt's attitude he and his family overstep the imaginary fence when they need help or want to thank Walt
